CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Problem

English is one of the subjects taught by schools at the junior high school level, as expected by the Ministry of Education and Culture in caccordance with the 2013 Curriculum, that a teaching material delivered in the bearning process must be relevant to the required competencies, countain valuable material and be in accordance with the level of development learners. One of the lessons that must be mastered in class VIII in achieving these goals is learning English.

The application of learning English for junior high school students is considered very important, because English is an international language that has been recognized by countries in the world. Therefore, it is very important to instill English in students from an early age. As with other language learning, English also has 4 aspects in it, namely listening, speaking, reading, writing. These aspects will be mastered by students if students have adequate marks. One of the provisions that can help students learn English is Vocabulary mastery. SMP IT AL-Fityah Pekanbaru implementes the 2013 curriculum (K13). According to the 2013 curriculum at SMP IT Al-Fityah Pekanbaru, the purpose of learning English is to develop students' potential to have communicative competence in interpersonal, transactional, and functional text by using kind of the English texts in spoken and written. This ini tanpa mencantumkan dan menyebutkan sumber:

Imeans that students are expected to develop vocabulary mastery to develop their communicative competence.

However, based on the curriculum above, vocabulary is one of the important things that must be mastered by every students of SMP IT Al-Fityah Pekanbaru, if students are unable to master the English component, it means that the English learning process is not effective and successful. The average complementeness minimum criterion (KKM) for English subject at SMP IT AL-Fityah Pekanbaru is 72.Based on the 2013 curriculum the maximum level of English vocabulary that SMP IT AL-Fityah Pekanbaru students must have is 3000 English vocabulary.

Burns and Broman (1975, p. 295) define that vocabulary is a collection of words used by people, classes, or professions. People communicate through shared information, and that information is a composite of words. By understanding the words in English, students can easily convey the ideas and information they will convey. They can also write text more easily and understand it because of their knowledge of English words.

Vocabulary is the basis and provision in language learning (Falahudin, 2017). Mastery of vocabulary needs to be done to improve students' ability to communicate, therefore it is very important for students to master vocabulary is that they can communicate with someone if students have less vocabulary it will make communication difficult and not run smoothly. Meanwhile, according to Zimmerman (1997) in Coady and Hucki (1997, p. 5) states that vocabulary is the most important aspect in learning English, because vocabulary is the center of language and is very important for language clearners. Therefore, students must have a stock of vocabulary so that they can master a language easily.

In learning English at SMP IT AL-Fityah, it was found a reality that was not in line with expectations, this fact referred to various problems encountered in learning English. Based on the results of interviews with English subject teachers at SMP IT AL-Fityah, it is known that students still plack mastery of English vocabulary, in an effort to increase vocabulary mastery, teachers usually apply several methods including lectures, memorization, games and translating text. However, after interview students, some students admitted that they still have difficulty in mastering English vocabulary. Researcher found several phenomena experienced by students so that it was difficult to master English vocabulary, including: some students could not pronounce English vocabulary well, some students could not Sunderstand the meaning of English vocabulary well, some students had difficulty memorizing vocabulary English, some students have difficulty spelling in English. As we know there are so many methods that can be used Conline to generate enthusiasm and interest in students in English and will make it easier for students to memorize and understand vocabulary, which is Cone method that can be used by using Quizzz.

Quizizz is a game-based educational application that can be used by a group of people to complete quizzes in a fun and interactive way. According to Wibawa et al (2019) Quizizz is the best alternative choice used as a medium pendidikan, penelitian,

If or students to play games, take quizzes, and discuss with teachers and friends. Quizizz can be accessed from a computer or mobile device as long as it is connected to the internet .Quizizz is an interactive quiz application that is more effective in increasing student enthusiasm in learning because it replace the old quiz way that only involves paper and pens but in the form of questions created by a lecture online with the student learning evaluation process capable of carrying out such learning using the Quizizz application in their cell phone. Students are more interested, more focused and are serious in implementing it, therefore this may impact on the process of teaching learning to be more student centered (Ma' rifatulloh 2020).

There are a lot of previous studies that prove that using Quizizz application is extremely valuable and effective in learning process. The first research related to this study from Zu, et.al, (2018) investigated the implementation of Quizizz as a game based learning in the Arabic classroom of Sultan Idris Education University Malaysia. The main purpose of this research is evaluating the effective interest of students for Arabic class. The second research related to this study by Permana and Permatawati (2020) the study aims to examine the effect of using Quizizz as a formative test tool in German classrooms. The result showed that the application of Quizizz was effective to be used as a formative test tool in learning German, especially to increase the grammar and vocabulary mastery of students.

The third research related to this study conducted by Rahayu and Purnawarman (2019) this study aims to present a practice way of self-Tassessment by making use of Quizizz features to improve students' grammar ounderstanding. The students' improvement on grammar after self-assessment was also investigated. The result of this research shows that students were able to do self-assessment as a result of their ability to identify their strengths and weaknesses prompted by Quizizz. Based on several studies above, it has been explained that the use of the Quizizz game is very influential on the success of othe learning process. But from several previous studies, the successful use of the Quizizz game as a learning media has not been applied in improving ⊆vocabulary mastery.

So, the researcher is interested in researching with the title "The Use of Quizizz Application on Students' English Vocabulary Mastery at SMP IT Al-Fityah Pekanbaru"

The Nature of Quizizz Application

a. Definition of Quizizz Application

Quizizz is a web tool or game-based educational application. Deepak Hox Cheernaath is the person who invented the Quizizz application in 2015. The purpose of this application is to make it easy for teachers to assess the achievements that have been achieved by students. Quzizz is a media-based education a game consisting of several players and is a fun learning medium (Purba, 2019). According to Citra and Rosi (2020, p. 263), Quizizz is "a game-based educational application, which has multiplayer activities and makes classes more fun". By using Quizizz, students can do exercises in class using their electronic devices. By using Quizizz in the learning process, students compete with each other and are more enthusiastic in carrying out learning because students can see firsthand the ranking of their achievements on the leaderboard.

According to Amornchewin (2018) Quizizz is a learning media that is believed to be able to motivate students in learning with interesting features. Quizizz is an application that can be used to create quizzes that can be accessed through devices such as computers, smartphones or tablets for quizzes complete a quiz. Quzizz can also

Mastery of Vocabulary

a. Definition of Mastery

Poerwadarminta (1989, p. 1271) states that mastery is understanding or ability to use knowledge or intelligence. Mastery interpreted as an attempt to seriously study something so that it is understood, while mastery according to educational experts is a form of change in behavior that is obtained from learning outcomes.

Nurgiantoro (2001, p. 162) states that mastery is a person's ability that can be realized both from theory and practice. Ability is the process, method, act of mastering or controlling, understanding or ability to use knowledge, intelligence. The word mastery can also be interpreted as a person's ability in something (KBBI, 2003: 604).

b. Definition of Vocabulary

According to Faraj (2015, p. 10) vocabulary is an important part of language, therefore it is very important to have good vocabulary mastery. According to Poerwadarminta (1985, p. 146) vocabulary is the mastery of words or anything that a person has in language.

According to Kamil and Heibert in Ahmadi et al (2005, p. 187) vocabulary is the knowledge that a person has about words and meanings.

c. Definition of Vocabulary Mastery

According to Purwo in Aris Yunisah, (2007, p. 11), that vocabulary mastery is a person's understanding of the vocabulary of a language and his ability to use that vocabulary both orally and in writing. must master the vocabulary.

According to Zuchdi (1995, p. 3-7) vocabulary mastery is a person's ability to recognize, understand, and use words properly and correctly by listening, speaking, reading and writing. Vocabulary mastery is the ability of a person to be able to master a word contained in English and become the basis for communication that has been possessed by everyone both orally and in writing, so that they can convey the meaning of the word.

d. Aspects of Vocabulary

In this section, the researcher will explain about aspects of English vocabulary. The first aspect is several aspects of vocabulary according to Cameron (2001, p. 78): pronunciation, spelling, grammar and meaning.

1) Pronunciation

Pronunciation is one aspect that has a big influence on vocabulary. Pronunciation is the way a person pronounces the words of a language. A person needs to listen to new words in a foreign language so that they can hear from beginning to end the sound of a word, because the pronunciation between Indonesian and English is different. The phonemes /o/ (thin) and //(this) are not used in Indonesia. Therefore, not only the shape of the sound but also one must know the placement.

2) Spelling

One must know the letters or words that make up the spelling. Spelling is the act of forming words correctly from individual letters or the way a word is spelled. A misspelling or sound is likely to be the cause of an error in the meaning or meaning of a word.

3) Grammar

Grammar is also related to words, as we know that our mother tongue grammar is very different from English.

4) Meaning

When there are two meanings of words that overlap, it can make someone confused in interpreting them, for example: make and do.

Then the second aspect of English vocabulary is according to Gairns and Redman (1986).

- a) The boundary between conceptual meaning: not only knowing what the lexis refers toto, but also where are the boundaries that separate it from related wordsmeaning (eg cup, mug, bowl).
- b) Polysemy: distinguishing the various meanings of one word formwith several meanings but are closely related (head: person, pin, anorganization).
- c) Homonymy: distinguishing between the various meanings of one word formwhich has several meanings that are not closely related (e.g. file: is used forloading paper or tools).
- d) Homophony: understanding words that have the same pronunciation butdifferent spellings and meanings (e.g. flour, flower).

- e) Synonyms: distinguish between different shades of meaning thatsynonyms have (eg extend, increase, expand).
- Affective meaning: distinguishing between attitude and emotionfactors (denotation and connotation), which depend on the attitude of the speaker orsituation. A socio-cultural association of lexical items is another important factor.
- g) Style, register, dialect: Able to distinguish between different levelsformality, effects of different contexts and topics, and differences ingeographic variation.
- h) Translation: awareness of certain differences and similarities between original and foreign languages (eg fake cognate).
- i) Vocabulary grammar: learning the rules that allow students to build.
- j) A different word form or even a different word from the word (eg sleep, sleep, sleeping; able, unable; disability).
- k) Pronunciation: ability to recognize and reproduce itemsin speech.

And then the last aspect, namely the aspect according to Thornbury (2002) aspects of vocabulary mastery are:

- a) Spelling
- b) Pronunciation
- c) Meaning

Types of Vocabulary

In this section, the researcher will explain the types of vocabulary.

The first type is according to Hiebert and Kamil (2005, P. 3) saying that vocabulary has two forms, namely the first spoken vocabulary is a word whose meaning we already know the meaning when we speak. The second print vocabulary which means we only know after we read and write it. Here are the forms of vocabulary:

1) Productive Vocabulary

Productive vocabulary is the vocabulary that a person uses to write and speak, such as familiar words that are often heard or that are often found.

2) Receptive Vocabulary or Introduction

Receptive or Recognition Vocabulary is a vocabulary whose meaning can be known when someone has often listened and written these words because the vocabulary is rarely found and used.

Then the second type of vocabulary according to Hatch and Brown, (1995, P. 181-243). There are the following:

1. Word Class

Is a word related to morphology, usually often referred to as parts of speech which can be in the form of nouns, verbs, pronouns, adverbs, adjectives, prepositions and conjunctions.

6. Homonyms

These are words that have different letters but have the same pronunciation and meaning. The example is as follows:

- a) well = well left = left
- b). well = good left = go

According to Thornbury in Zahro' (2013),, there are four types of vocabulary in English. Nouns, adjectives, verbs and adverbs are four types of words. It The following sections will discuss each of these vocabulary classes.

1) Noun

Nouns are classified as general nouns or nouns, according to Mew and Seaton (2013). concrete nouns, proper nouns, collective nouns, abstract nouns, singular nouns, countable nouns, and Uncountable nouns are all examples of nouns.

2) Adjective

In other words, the adjective is a word that is used before a noun or pronoun and fulfills that condition. Smart, thin, simple, fat, heavy, sad, happy, and so on are examples of adjective. When using two or more adjectives, using the following order: scale, consistency, color, origin, and content. For example, consider smallblack plastic box. Small word refers to size, black word meanscolor, and the word plastic to the material in the sentence.

Adverbs of manner, adverbs of position and direction, adverbstime, frequency adverbs, and degree adverbs are of five types from adverbs.

From several explanations of vocabulary mastery indicators above, namely from Cameron (2001, p. 78), Gairns and Redman (1986), Thornbury (2002), dan Hiebert and Kamil (2005, p. 3). In this research, the researcher used indicators: noun, adjective, verb, adver, spelling, meaning, grammar as indicatotrs of vocabulary mastery. The researcher used theses indicators because theses indicators are indicators that are commonly used in the process of learning English at SMP IT-Al- Fityah Pekanbaru.

B. Relevant Research

Relevant research was conducted with a view to avoiding duplication Cip in the design of the researcher's findings. Besides, to show the authenticity of the researcher that the topic studied by other researchers is not in the same context. In addition, by looking at previous research, it is very helpful for research in selecting and determining the appropriate research design because researchers get an overview and comparison of the designs that have been zimplemented.

The first research conducted by Fang Zhao with the title "Using Quizizz to Integrate Fun Multiplayer Activity in the Accounting Classroom". This research was conducted in 2019 at the Girad School of Business, Merrimack College, Nourt Andover MA, USA. Variable X refers to the use of using Quizz application and variable Y refers to students' mastery of English vocabulary.

RESEARCH METHOD

A. Design of the Research

In this research, researcher used quantitative research methods. Sugiyono (2018, p. 13) quantitative research method is a research method based on positivistic (concrete data), research data in the form of numbers that be measured used statistics as a calculation test tool, related to the problem being studied to produce a conclusion. This research was experimental research according to Creswell (2012, p. 295) an experimental research is a testing the independent variable (X) to determine whether it influences e dependent variable (Y). Experimental research design is to enable researcher to estimate the effect of an experimental treatment (Ari et al, 2006, p. 325). The type of this research used in this study was a quasi - experimental research. This study had two variables, namely the variable x as the variable that affects and the variable y as the variable that is affected. In this study, the variable x is the use of Quizizz, the variable y is the mastery of English Tvocabulary. In this study, a comparison between before and after Quzizz be seen in the learning process.

B. Time and Location of The Research

This research was conducted at SMP AL-Fityah which is located at Jl. Swakarya Ujung Panam, Pekanbaru. This research conducted from August to September 2022, in which this research focus on eight grade students of SMP IT AL-Fityah Pekanbaru.

D. Population and Sample of The Research

1. Population of The Research

According to Crewell (2012), a group of individuals who have the same characteristics of an object is called a population. The population of this study were all students of class VIII at SMPIT Al-Fityah Pekanbaru totaling 40 people. Class A 15 people and class B 25 people. Sample of The Research

The researcher used total sampling technique to take sample of this research. The total sampling technique is to choose the number of sample according to the number of populations. According to Suharsini Arikunto, if the research object is less than 100, it is better to take all of them until the research becomes a population study, but if the research subject is large, the sample can be taken between 10% or 20% -25% or more. Because the research object is less than 100, the researcher took all samples from the population.

2. Validity

According tp Lodico, Spaulding, & Voegtle(2006, p. 87) validity focuse on ensuring that what the instrument measurement in Educational Research and Assesment "claims" to measure is truly what it is measuring". It means validity indicates the accuracy of the instruments. There are several kinds of validity and in this research the researcher used content validity. The test on this researchwas based on the material that they learned. The researcher used SPSS 23.0 version to find out the validity of the test.

Reliability

According to Lodico, Spauling, & Voegtle (2006) Reliability refers to the consistency of scores, that is, an instrument's ability to produce approximately the same score for an individual over repeated testing or across different raters. In the other words realiability refers to the consistency. It means the score of the test are similar when it takes in another time. Here is same factor effect reability Wolf 1994 in Cohen, Maniom, & Morrison (2007);

- a. Range of the group that is being tasted
- The group level of tprofociency
- The lengh of the measure (the longer the test the greater the chance of the errors).
- d. The way in which reability is calculated

To see wheter the test was realibele or not the researcher used Cronbach Alpa technique by using SPSS 23.0 version. The levels of reabilit

lity as follow:	>0.09	very highly reability
	0.80-0.90	highly reability
	0.70-0.79	reliable
	0.60-0.69	marginally/minimally realiable
	< 0.60	unacceptably low reability

According to Bryman and Carner (1990) in Cohen, Maniom,& Morrison(2007), The level of reability is acceptable at 0.8, atlthouh other suggest that it is acceptable if it 0.067 or above.

F. Technique of Analysing Data

This research used a quasi experimental data analysis. The quasi experimental data of this research is numeric data and was be formulated by Susing statistical method. In the experimental design, the date analyses was experimental two group, used pre-test and post-test. The data of this research was analyzed by using independent sample t-test using SPSS 23.0. The researcher compared the results of mean score from pre-test and post- test to the scale of rating score from adopted by Arikunto (2013). The category of students 'scores are as follow:

1. NormalityTest

Knowing the data which was obtained from the students' scores had normal distribution or not. The researcher used SPSS 23.0 version program. The researcher used Kolmogorov- Smirnov to analyze the data. The data is normal if sig > 0,05 and the data is not normal if sig < 0,05. The result of Kolmogorov- Smirnov showed for that data for experimental class and control class were normal. It was presented in the following table:

Table III.9
Test of Normality

Class		Kolmogorov -Smirnov		Shapiro- Wilk
	Statistic	Df	Sig	Statistic	Df	Sig
Postexperimenal	0,171	25	0,057	0,929	25	0,083
Post control	0,210	15	0,074	0,896	15	0,084

It can be seen that all of the data are normal distribution. The significant level for post-test in experimental class is 0,057. It means that 0,057 > 0,05, and the significant level for post-test control class is 0,074 > 0,05. In short, the data are normal distribution.

Homogeneity Test

A homogeneity test was used to know whether the data that got from the students' scores were homogeneous or not. The researcher used SPSS 23.0 version program to analyze it. The result of the test of homogeneity can be interpreted as follows:

- a. If (sig) > 0.05 = the data is homogeneity
- b. If (sig) < 0.05 = the data is not homogeneity

Table III. 10 Test of Homogeneity of Variance

Levence Statistic	df1	df2	Sig.

Based on the table test of homogeneity of variance, it can be seen that value of Levence statistic is 0,077, df1 is 1, df2 is 38 and p- value is 0.0783. It means that 0.783 > 0.05. It can be conclude that the data of students vocabulary mastery from experimental and class control are homogeneous.

This research was conducted to find out the significant difference of students' vocabulary mastery taught by using Quizizz application and students' vocabulary mastery taught without by using Quizizz application at SMP IT Al-Fityah Pekanbaru.

Thus, the researcher concludes this research as follows:

- The students' vocabulary mastery taught by using Quizizz application are categorized into very good category. It can be seen from the comparison of mean score of students' vocabulary mastery after being taught by using Quizizz application between experimental class and control class.
- 2. The students' vocabulary mastery taught without using Quizizz application are category good category. It can be seen from the mean score of students' vocabulary mastery taught without using Quizizz application.

 The mean score in control class is less that the mean in experimental class.

 The result of adata analysis by using independent sample t-test showa that
 - The result of adata analysis by using independent sample t-test showa that the value of sig (2-tailed) is less than 0,05. It means that alternatif hypothesis(Ha) is accepted and null hypothesis (Ho) is rejected. It means that there is a significant difference of students' vocabulary mastery between taught using Quizizz application and without using Quizizz application at SMP IT Al –fityah Pekanbaru.
