

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

This research consists of two variables. They are the effect Of Pelmanism Gaame (independent variable) and the students' reading comprehension (dependent variable). Here, the writer concludes that, students' reading comprehension taught without using Pelmanism Game is lower than the students' reading comprehension taught, and the students' reading comprehension taught by using Pelmanism Game differs significantly from students' reading comprehension taught without using Pelmanism Game at the first year at Vocational School Taruna Pekanbaru.

In conclusion, teaching English by implementing Pelmanism Game of the ten grade students at Vocational School Taruna Pekanbaru is successful to improve their reading comprehension.

B. Suggestion

Based on the result of the research the researcher presents some suggestion pertaining to teaching and learning process the of students' comprehension in reading. The researcher gives some suggestion to the English teacher and the students at school.

1. Suggestion to the Teacher

A teacher is one of the most important educational components in selecting instructional materials and in choosing appropriate strategies in teaching and learning process. The purpose of the teacher is to educate should to be encourage the growth of teacher as a professional in his or her field.

The following is some points that should be considered by English teacher, while they are presenting the activities in order to improve the students' result in English:

- a. The teachers should attend their experience and knowledge to teach English by following seminars or workshop about the recent teaching English method.
- b. They should invite the students to enjoy English subject in order that students do not get bored in it.
- c. Giving the students more many tasks is good for them, so that the students will exercise more out of classroom activity.
- d. Discussion class is also good in teaching English when the teacher feel their students get difficulties to follow the next topic of the subject to construct good comprehension in English.

2. Suggestion to the Students

After doing this research, the writer has some suggestion to the students that can improve their English skill in learning English. To be successful in English, the students of Vocational school Taruna Pekanbaru have to display the following characters:

- a. The students should be active in the class.
- b. The students should discuss the material with the teacher and their friends.
- c. The students should read many sources, like: book, magazine etc.
- d. The students should enjoy English material to increase the quality of their English achievement.