ABSTRACT

Kiki Wahyuni, (2023): The Influece of Cake Learning Application on Students' Speaking Ability at the Tenth Grade of SMAN 1 Siak Hulu

Cake is an android-based application that focuses on learning English but still fun. There are many advantages when we use this application because this application is completely free. This application can train skills in speaking, reading, and even listening. The purpose of this research was to find out whether there is a significant influence between students' speaking ability before and after being taught by using the cake learning application in class X SMAN 1 Siak Hulu. This research used quantitative research. The design of this research was a preexperimental method with one group pre-test design and post-test design. This research was held on March-May 2023 at SMAN 1 Siak Hulu. To collect data, the researcher used a speaking monolog test to determine students' speaking ability. The population was all of the 10th grade students of SMAN 1 Siak Hulu, and this research used one class as the sample of the research by using a convenience sampling technique which the total of sample were 33 students. In addition, pretest, treatment, and post-test were used to gather the data. The findings of data analyzed showed that the mean score of students after being taught by using the Cake Learning Application (78.24) was higher than before being taught by using the Cake Learning Application (57.64). It can be concluded that there was an influence between students' speaking ability before and after being taught by using the cake learning application in class X SMAN 1 Siak Hulu.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Problem

Acording to Nunan (2003), speaking is described as the ability to express oneself in the situation, or the activity to acts, or situation in precise words or the ability to converse or to express of ideas fluently. According to Chandra (2011), one way to communicate is through speaking. It is a tool for verbally communicating with other people, animals, and even oneself about one's beliefs, thoughts, facts, and feelings. Each region and country has its own language, one of which is English. Speaking are one of the common skills in learning English. In English, the ability to speak is one of the important aspects that must be possessed.

According to Haris (1969), Speaking has several aspects, such Pronunciation, Grammar, Vocabulary, Fluency, and as Comprehension. Speaking is a form of speech act in the form of sounds produced by the vocal organs accompanied by body movements and facial expressions.

Considering that English is an international language or the language of the world's population, English is one of the dominant languages used globally in education, business, commerce, science, law, tourism, international relations, health and technology. In education, learning English gives students the ability to gain access to the outside world and understand different ways of thinking. Their understanding of this socio-cultural and intercultural knowledge can improve their critical thinking skills.

In learning English especially speaking, the teacher applies face-to-face learning by using dialogues and making conversations in front of the class. Based on the researcher observation and interview to the tenth grade English teacher at the SMAN 1 Siak Hulu, most of the students had difficulity in speaking, the students did not achieve the minimum criteria achievement (MCA) on speaking the MCA is 76, and the MCA collected from their speaking test. Then, there are some problems found and hindered students to speak English, students experienced some difficulties in speaking English including; students made mistakes in pronunciation, they were difficult to spell the word correctly, also students did not pronounce words correctly and fluently when speaking English.

This might happen due to a lack of English speaking habits, and those certainly hinder students from speaking English properly and fluently. Even though the teacher gave a strategy by practicing before performing in front of the class, students still got difficulties in speaking.

In this study, the researcher offers a solution to solve these problems, which is by using a Cake application as a tool for learning Media. The researcher chose this application because it has features that can be used in learning, so the students can be more interested and not bored when learning English. The application is expected to help students in learning especially speaking, so the students can find the new vocabulary used in text, how to pronounce, and can imitate it when they perform.

Cake is an android-based application that focuses on learning English but still fun. There are many advantages when we use this application because this application is completely free. This application can train skills in speaking, reading, and even listening.

This application provides various English video features with native speakers, and in the application there are English and Indonesian subtitles which are not ambiguous and easy to understand. In the Cake speaking application, the challenge that is most often passed, students can follow the speaking according to the speaker's. According to Corp (2021), this application can also check whether the speak is correct or not with Advanced AI Speech Recognition technology.

However, as previous research that using the Cake application, several studies only focused on improving speaking on university students (e.g. Gusti, I Wayan, Evin, Ni Nyoman & Ni Ketut, 2022; Chusnul & Sinta, 2022; Haris & Ferawaty, 2022;), research to improve speaking on junior high school students (e.g Anisa, Asri & Salwa, 2022; Ani & Mariana, 2022), and there is research to improve pronunciation and vocabulary of senior high school students (e.g Siska, 2022; Agus & Sutrisno, 2022), also research on the effectiveness of using the Cake application on university students (e,g Intan, Yulianto & Henry, 2022). Then, previous research about speaking was only focuse on students debate (e.g Rokhayani, 2015), also students vocabulary on speaking skills (Omaar 2016; Adam 2016).

Based on the previous research, most of the research used classroom action research, and the researcher found that only a few studies focus on experimental research. So, the researcher think that it is necessary needs to do the research more about it.

Based on the phenomena illustrated above, the researcher chose this application for analysis. The researcher interested in the problems above in the research entitled; THE INFLUENCE OF CAKE LEARNING APPLICATION ON STUDENTS' ABILITY AT THE TENTH GRADE OF SMA NEGERI 1 SIAK HULU

D. Definition of Terms

There are several terms involved in this research. To avoid misunderstanding the terms used. So, the following terms will be defined as follows:

- 1. According to Torky (2006), speaking ability is the ability to express English in conversation fluently and communicate effectively, and use the right language structure and vocabulary, use the right pronunciation, and apply the right way
- 2. According to Sinha (2019) as cited in Nuraeni (2020), cake application serves recording feature that can be listened by the users and the cake application is an English learning application that serves to improve student learning activities in the field of English. This application provides features of speaking, writing, listening, and reading. So, the Cake application can help students to learn English.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

A. Theoretical Framework

1. Speaking

a. Definitions of Speaking

Speaking is the ability to verbally express opinions, thoughts, facts, and feelings to other people, animals, and even to oneself. According to Nunan (2003) speaking is a productive oral skill which consists of composing systematic verbal utterances to convey meaning.

According to Murica (2001) speaking is a complex skill, which must be taught everywhere, and is a skill that students learn better in groups. According to several studies, speaking is one of the four skills in English that students must master, and speaking is indispensable for effective communication in any language.

According to Kusmaryati (2008/2009), Speaking ability is a skill, namely communicating the sound of speech to express and convey messages or ideas.

According to Thornbury (2005) as quoted in Kusumaryani (2019) speaking is a part of everyday life that we take for granted. Speaking is a skill that is not easy to master as a foreign language learner because we have to be able to speak it fluently. Teaching speaking foreign languages, especially English, of course, can be started by honing conversation skills. Based on the explanation above, the researcher concludes that speaking is a person's skill to convey his thoughts to anyone orally, however, speaking are difficult to develop if they are not continuously practice.

Based on explanation above, Speaking is one of the four language skills (reading, writing, listening and speaking). So, speaking is an important part of English skills that must be learned further in the teaching and learning process in the classroom.

b. Purpose of Speaking

The general purpose of speaking is to inform, entertain, report, persuade and convince someone. And in general, the purpose of speaking in English is for students to be able to communicate orally in simple English. This is useful for understanding the purpose of speaking itself. According to Lynch (1992) speaking has eight purposes:

- 1. To achieve and expand the linguistic competence of learners.
- To increase their confidence in using spoken English
- To develop their ability to analyze and evaluate oral show
- To sharpen their strategic competence in face-to-face interactions
- To convey their message to others.
- 6. Learners can use the communication strategy dictionary or previous input to cover gaps in productive knowledge
- 7. There are many opportunities to learn
- 8. Learners talk about things that are mostly familiar to them

From the description above, the researcher concludes that with the good speaking it can convey ideas, information or other things well.

In addition, it can also increase self-confidence.

c. Basic Types of Speaking

According to Brown (2004), there are five basic types of speaking, they are imitative, intensive, responsive, interactive, and extensive.

a. Imitative

Imitative speaking is the ability to imitate (parrot back) a word or a phrase or possibly a sentence.

b. Intensive

Intensive speaking goes one step beyond imitative to include any speaking performance designed to practice some of the phonological and grammatical aspects of language.

c. Responsive

Responsive speaking is interaction at a somewhat limited level from very brief conversation, standard greetings and small talk, simple comments and requests, and the like.

d. Interactive

interactive speaking; complex interactions that sometimes include multiple exchanges and/or multiple participants.

e. Extensive

Extensive speaking is oral production, including speeches, oral presentations, and storytelling.

d. The Components of Speaking

According to Brown (2004), there are five components of speaking; pronunciation, grammar, vocabulary. fluency, and comprehension.

a. Pronunciation

Pronunciation is a way for students to produce clearer language when they speak. That is, students can communicate effectively when they have good pronunciation and intonation even though they have limited vocabulary and grammar. Pronunciation is a way for students to produce spoken words clearly when they speak, Kline (2001).

b. Grammar

Grammar is needed for students to compose correct sentences in conversation both in written and oral form. Grammar is defined as a systematic way of calculating and predicting the ideal speaker's or listener's knowledge of language. This is done with a set of rules or principles that can be used to produce all well-formed or grammatical utterances in the language, Purpura (2004).

Vocabulary

Vocabulary is very important for the successful use of a second language because without a broad vocabulary, we will not be able to use the structures and functions that we may have learned for comprehensible communicative. It can be said that one of the keys to success in communicative is the power of words. In spoken language, vocabulary tends to be familiar and everyday, Turk (2003).

d. Fluency defined ability can be as the Fluency communicatively, fluently and accurately. Fluency usually refers to expressing spoken language freely without distraction. A teacher should not immediately correct when students express while the assumption that too many corrections interfere with the flow of conversation, Pollard (2008).

Comprehension

Comprehension is the ability to understand and process the expanse of discourse, formulate a representation of the meaning of a sentence. Second language comprehension is more difficult to learn. Understanding refers to the fact that participants fully understand the nature of a research project, even when the procedure is complex and involves risks. Cohen et al (2005).

2. Cake Learning Application

a. Definition of Cake Learning App

The cake app is that application can be used to learn English. This is an application to help people become better speaking. It gives people the confidence and skills to speak in public, or in everyday life. According to Sinha (2019) as cited in Nuraeni (2020), the cake application presents a recording feature that users can listen to, making it very enjoyable.

According to Octavianita (2022), Cake presents the form of small pieces or movies including brief conversations or film or animation material when we use it. There are sample videos to teach us some new English terms, idioms or vocabulary useful for everyday speaking. This application really recommended to students in improving the English skills particularly for speaking, Haris (2022). So, the teachers can use this application to teach students. According to Pourhosein Gilakjani (2013) as cited in Prayudi (2021), the use of technologies has the great potential to change the existing language teaching methods.

This application can improve English speaking ability, and inn learning English using the cake application students learn through videos, they can learn from audio such as conversations, and even quizzes. This app has all voice recognition, they can record their speaking voice. So, they can find out what words are mispronounced as feedback from this application. Each student recording will be given an A value, if all the words are pronounced correctly, if B, C, D, there is a pronunciation error.

Another feature of learning to speak using this application is that there are many English expressions, terms, idioms that are very useful and must be known by English learners in short film or audio scripts. This app is not only for learning English Speaking but also for listening, grammar, vocabulary.

b. Function of Cake Learning App

According to the Cake application, this application will help improve speaking. We can study real-life expressions chosen by linguists. Practice speaking and revising what you've learned with quizzes. Practice and repetition will make memorizing expressions simple. Continuous learning with Cake will really help improve English skills.

The Cake app has so many features for learning English such as a speaking tool to improve speaking using exchanges, watching videos, and numbers filling in the blanks and comparing the correct answers to help memorize each expression. The best instruments for practicing speaking are the Web, podcasts, video conferencing, recordings, and speech recognition programs (Bahadorfar & Omidvar, 2014).

Steps to Use Cake app in teaching speaking

The following is the procedures of using the cake application, according to Andi (2022);

1. Before using the Cake App, the first thing students have to do is download it from the Play Store. After the application is downloaded students open the Cake application on the smartphone.

- To access this application, students must login first. Students can login with Facebook account or Google account.
- There are 9 languages available, including Indonesian and English. Next, we are asked to log in via Google or Facebook.
- 4. After logging in, we will see the application's start page which contains the Start menu, Search, Chat, Library and Profile.

- 8. Students select and study the videos they like
- The students was asked to explain in front of the class what they have learned from the video.

In the process of speaking, you must listen to conversation before you are asked to speak. Depends on the conversation you are listening to. The app will automatically correct your speaking, if you make a mistake the word will have stripes and get low points. You can repeat it until you have the correct speaking.

B. Relevant Research

Research can be accepted and continued because it is relevant to several studies that have been done before. The researcher pointed out relevant research that was carried out first relevant research that was taken by researchers in this study conducted by Nuraeni & Winda Yanthi (2020) this research was entitled "The Use of Cake application in Teaching Speaking to Senior High School's Students". This research explores the use of Cake application in teaching speaking to senior high school students. The aim of this study was to find out whether the use of Cake application in teaching speaking skill to senior high school students, and the students' perception about Cake application. The approach of this study was qualitative. Observation, questionnaire and interview were used as the instruments of eliciting the data. The subjects of this study were the tenth grade science one students of SMA PGRI 3 BOGOR.

Second, Andi Rizki's research (2022) entitled "The Effectiveness of Cake Application on Students' Speaking Skills in English Classroom eleventh grade MAN 4 Bone". This research method used was an experimental method of one class pretest and posttest. The research instrument was collected using an oral test. The test was divided into pretest and posttest. Based on the results of the pre-test and post-test, it is known that the t count is 10.749 as a significant level with 30 degrees of freedom (df = 31 - 1 = 30, then the t table is 1.679 from the average score of the pre-test 65.48 and post- test 82.32. This shows that the Cake Application material has a significant effect on improving students' speaking skills in correct pronunciation.

Third, Chusnul & Sinta's research (2022) entitled "The Use of Cake Application on Students' Speaking Skills in English for Specific Purposes (ESP)". In this case researchers used a questionnaire made using google form and distributed via WhatsApp as an instrument to students. The participants were 33 As-Syafi'iyah Islamic University students. From the answers to the questionnaire it can be concluded that students get new words with the correct pronunciation and can speak fluently in ESP.

Fourth, Paramita, Ardika, Setyono, Yuliantini and Suciani (2022) this research was entitled "The use of cake application to improve speaking ability". The aim of the study is to improve students speaking skill through Cake application. The research design is quantitative is research with a quasi-experimental approach. The groups used in this study amounted to 2 groups, namely the experimental group using the Cake application and the control group using the conventional method (without using the application). The data on the tests to compare the pretest and post-test score. The instrument used in this study was speaking test. The result shows that that the use of the cake application in the Civil Engineering Department affect student learning outcomes, as evidenced by the results of the analysis obtained a Z value of -6,317 with Sig. 0.000 < 0.05. It means that cake application effective to improve student learning outcomes.

Therefore, the similarities of these research with my research are the application that used; Cake Learning application. In the other hand, the differences between these research with my research are on the sample, and the focus of this research. However, in this research the researcher tried to find out the influence of Cake application on speaking ability in tenth grade at SMA Negeri 1 Siak Hulu.

concept is still abstract from research. The researcher wants to know the significant influence of the Cake application on their speaking ability. In this research, there are two variables of Cake application which are denoted by X, and students' speaking ability which are denoted by Y.

1. The indicators of variable X (Cake Learning Application):

According to Ramadhani (2022) the implementation of Cake learning application (cited in Cake learning application) on class as follows:

- a. The students install the application on their smartphones
- b. The researcher teaches how to use the application and log-in using a personal account. Students can login with Facebook account or Google account
- c. There are 9 languages, including Indonesian and English.
- d. Students see the start page of the application which contains several types of menus

- Pronuncation
- Grammar
- Vocabulary
- Fluency
- Comprehension

D. The Assumption and the Hypothesis

CHAPTER III

METHOD OF THE RESEARCH

A. Design of the Research

This study used a quantitative research with an experimental design. Quantitative is a research method that uses data in the form of numbers as a data analysis tool. According to Creswell (2017), quantitative research is a method for testing theories by way of experimenting with the relationship of variables so that data appears in the form of numbers which are analyzed based on statistical procedures.

The design of this research was pre-experimental research design with one group pre-test and post-test. Cohen (2005) said the pre-experimental research is the one group pre-test post-test. According to Ary (2013) in this pre-experimental study, there is no random assignment to subjects or groups without a control class.

The design of this study requires a sample group to be treated. In this study the treatment is in the form of applying the Cake application for students' speaking ability. This research design study also requires 3 (three) steps that must be carried out by the researcher during the application of independent variables, namely: 1) having a pre-test that measures the dependent (variable Y), 2) applying the independent variable/experimental treatment to research subjects, 3) there is a post test that measures the dependent (variable X). After the three stages of implementation, the differences in pre-test and post-test results was evaluated and compared in the form of scores, Ary (2013).

E. Sample

According to Creswell (2012), the sample is a sub-group of the target population that the researcher plans to study in order to generalize about the target population. In an ideal situation, we can choose a sample from individuals representing the entire population.

The sample for this study only had one class used in this research. In selecting the sample the researcher used a convenience sampling technique, because the school policy allows the researcher to use only one class. According to Gay and Airasian (2000), convenience sampling (also known as availability sampling) is a specific type of nonprobability sampling method that relies on collecting data from members of the population who are willing to participate in the study. The reason the researcher chose this sampling technique was because after the researcher asked one of the tenth grade English teachers at the school, she said that it was only possible that only one class could be

F. Technique of Data Collecting

Singh (2006) said that data collection is the accumulation of specific evidence that will enable researchers to properly analyze the results of all activities with their research designs and procedures. The instrument used to collect data in this study was a speaking test. There were two parts of the test: pre-test and post-test. The test procedures were documented. Then, the researcher steped to get data:

1. Pre-Test

Before carrying out the treatment, the researcher gave a pre-test. This test was used to measure students' speaking ability. The researcher gave a speaking test to students. Students were given a narrative text video. Then students were asked to retell the story presented in the video.

2. Treatment

The researcher gave treatment to the students after doing the pretest. And this treatment required meetings and each meeting lasted about 90 minutes. The following are some steps of the learning process:

- a. At the time before starting to provide subject matter, the researcher conveyed some motivation and reminded the students about how importance it is to learn English.
- b. The researcher provided insight into the learning process.
- c. The researcher asked the students to introduce themselves in front of the class.
- d. The researcher explained the intent or purpose of research.
- e. The researcher introduced and showed the Cake Application, then explained the functions, features and how to use the Cake Application to students.
- f. The students started to practice and explored cake applications.
- g. Students searched for videos related to Narrative Text, by typing in the keyword "Little Fox Animation" themselves. Other students watched their friends discussing the short video they just watched.

3. Post-Test

In the experimental research, tests were given after students used the Cake Application. After teaching using the Cake Application to learn to speak, students was given a post-test which was the same as the pretest. The post test was in the form of an oral exam. Following are the steps for implementing the posttest:

- a. The researcher explained the test strategy to give to students.
- b. The researcher asked the students to give oral presentations by retelling the stories presented in the videos specified in the Cake application.

G. Technique of Data Analysis

According to Singh (2006), data collection is the accumulation of certain evidences that will enable researchers to correctly analyze the results of all activities with research designs and procedures. The results of the oral test were analyzed quantitatively. Quantitative analysis was carried out using statistics called statistical analysis. To find out significant influence between speaking ability before and after being taught using the Cake application, in this study the researcher used a paired sample T test using SPSS version 25. The assessment process was carried out by two raters by using the following rating scale adopted from Brown (2004) as below:

H. Validity and Reliability of the Test

1. Validity

According to Creswell (2012), validity is evidence of suitability about a concept or construct as measured by a test. Validity is an important key to measuring an effective research instrument. So, Validity is the extent to which inferences made from the results of the assessment are appropriate, meaningful. And useful in terms of assessment purposes. There are four main types of validity, namely construct validity, content validity. Face validity and criterion validity.

In this study, the researcher used content validity. According to Brown (2003) content validity is partly a matter of determining whether the content contained in the instrument is an adequate sample of the content domain, which it is supposed to represent.

2. Reliability

In a test must be reliable. Cohen (2007) says that reliability in quantitative research is basically a synonym for dependability, consistency, and replication over time, instruments, and groups of respondents. According to Bachman (2010), reliability is defined as the consistency of measurements across various measurement settings. Reliability is ensuring that the test is consistent and reliable (Arikunto, 2010). Then, the reliability of a measuring instrument is the degree of consistency of a measuring instrument with what it measures. To measure test reliability through rater reliability, especially inter-rater reliability. Two raters were used. To determine reliability, the researcher used SPSS version 25.

To describe the scores between first rater and second rater, the researcher calculated them by using SPSS version 25. The researcher used the reliability category which can be seen in the following table by Cohen, Manion, & Marrison (2007).

Table III.6

Suggestion

The researcher would like to provide some suggestions to the reader, especially for future research, after conducting treatments and observing the influence in the speaking ability of students' that taught by using the Cake application to examine the students' speaking ability.

Suggestion for the teachers, the researcher suggests that teachers consider using this application. This application can be an option to use in the class to help students in speaking, with several features that are very easy to use and with a lots of videos.

For students, all students are expected to continue to use this application for learning English especially speaking. Never think that English is a difficult foreign language.

Then, for the next researchers, This thesis was not as flawless as the experts said. There were several flaws with it. As a consequence, the findings of the study may be utilized as an extra reference for future researchers who want to conduct a research regarding Cake application. Also, the for future researchers can conduct the research using another skills; Reading, listening, and others.

THE CAT AND THE FOX

One day, a cat and the fox were discussing about hounds. The cat said, "I hate hounds. They are very nasty animals. They hunt and kill us", "Yes, you know, i hate hounds more than you", said the fox angrily. Then they both discussed about some tricks how to get away from the hounds.

The cat asked the fox, "How do you save your self from the hounds?", the fox replied, "There are many tricks to get away from hounds" replied the fox arrogantly. "Can you say what your tricks are?" asked the cat impatiently. "They are very simple", said the fox. "I can hide behind thick bushes. I can run along thorny hedges. I can hide in burrows. And there are many more such tricks". "What about your trick?", "How many tricks do you know?", asked the fox to the cat. "I know just one trick", replied the cat calmly. "Ohh! How sad!! And how poor you are!", sneered the fox. "You know only one trick? How is it?", asked the fox curiously.

The cat was about to answer. But, suddenly, a flock of hounds approach to the place where the cat and the fox stayed. The cat said, "I am going to do it now. Because the hounds are coming". Saying these words, the cat ran up and nearby tree to save from the hounds. On the other hand, the fox tried all his tricks but all his tricks were not successfull. The hounds beat him easily. Fortunately, the cat can save herself. She said to herself proudy, "My one trick is better than all his tricks".

"A WHITE HERON"

Sylvia wasn't usually in the woods at sunset, but on this June evening she was searching for her grandmother's cow.

"Mistress Moolly! I've been looking for you for three hours!" Sylvia and Mistress Moolly slowly made their way home.

Suddenly Sylvia heard at the sound of a whistle—not a bird's whisle, but a man's.

"Hello! What's your name?" a young man called in a friendly voice.

"Sylvia," she whispered. She didn't dare look at the man, who was carrying a shotgun over his shoulder. Sylvia felt uneasy as they walked together toward Mrs. Tilley's home.

The man"I've been hunting birds all day and now it's getting dark," he said. "Do you think I might stay overnight with your family?" Sylvia didn't respond. She was sure her grandmother would turn him away. However, Mrs. Tilley welcomed the man instead.

"Sylvia has a way with birds and wild creatures. There isn't a foot of wilderness around here she doesn't perked up. "So Sylvia knows all about birds, does she? I've been collecting birds since I was a boy."

Mrs. Tilley looked bewildered. "Do you keep them in cages?"

Hak Cipta Dilindungi Undang-Undang

"No, they're stuffed and preserved, i've been hunting some uncommon ones for years. Yesterday I caught a glimpse of a rare white heron and followed it in this direction. I'd give ten dollars to anyone who could show me that heron's nest."

In the morning, when she spotted the shining sea, she gaped at the sight. "I feel like I could fly among the clouds!" She peered down at the green marsh, and there was the heron, rising from a dead hemlock tree. The bird called down to its mate, which was nested far below. But the heron was soon gone, driven away by a noisy flock of smaller birds. Then she ran to home. They were waiting for her on the porch.

"Your hands and feet are all scraped!" Mrs. Tilley scolded.

"Did you find the white heron?" the man asked eagerly.

Sylvia knew his ten dollars could change their lives for the better. And yet . . . Sylvia suddenly decided to say nothing about the heron and its nest. She remembered how she'd watched the sea and the morning with the bird. She could not tell the heron's secret and give its life away.
