CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Study

Speaking is an activity to produce sound and it is released by mouth. According to Kurum (2016), speaking produces meaningful sentences in that; in other words, people speak that language. As a tool of communication, speaking is an interactive process of constructing meaning that involves producing and receiving, and processing information (Burns & Joyce, 1997). Meanwhile, Wamnebo et al (2018), describes speaking as a language talent that develops over time in students' lives. Speaking is an important aspect of learning and teaching a second language.

Senior High School 14 Pekanbaru is one of the senior high schools in Indonesia that applies the 2013 curriculum as its guidance in the teaching and learning process. As a formal educational institution, English is served as a compulsory subject that is taught once a week in 2x45 minutes for each meeting. English is one of the subjects that should be mastered by the students, especially in terms of speaking. Based on National Standard Council (BSNP) for the 2013 curriculum, speaking is one of the indicators of students' success in learning English. It is expected that senior high school students be able to speak and communicate in English. They should be able to asking and giving for information related to suggestions and offers, asking and giving for information regarding opinions and thoughts, make formal invitations by asking and giving for information related to school or workplace activities, make oral and written analytical exposition texts by asking and giving for information related to actual issues, and giving and requesting information related to circumstances, actions, activities or events without mentioning the culprit, BSNP (2013).

Based on the researcher observation, the researcher found that most of the students at the eleventh grade students of Senior High School 14 Pekanbaru, have difficulties in speaking skill. They admit that they have difficulty in expressing daily conversation and still lack confidence in speaking English. They are also lack of vocabulary often make mistakes in pronunciation and grammar, and also not speaking fluently and hard to understand even a simple conversation. There are several reasons that contribute to difficulties in speaking English, including boredom and disinterest in the media used in the teaching and learning process. Teachers use English books and sometimes use video as a media for teaching speaking skills in class. Teachers try to arouse students' interest in speaking skills, but using English books and videos are still less effective in improving students' speaking skills. This is because the media used only focuses on explaining the learning material, not speaking practice.

So in this study, the researcher use the Cake application as a media in teaching speaking. According to Tafonao (2018) learning media is a tool that can be used to channel messages from senders and recipients, so that they can stimulate students' thoughts, feelings, concerns, and interest in learning. On the other hand Baron (2020) state that the combination of learning applications has made it easy for teachers to direct and guide students to improve their English speaking skill. The Cake application is an application to facilitate learning English, especially learning to speak English like a native speaker. According to Saud Albahlal (2019), Cake application provides a lot of video references on You tube. The use of YouTube in teaching the English language plays a leading role in helping learners understand their English lessons. It can improve the performance of students and upgrade their levels of learning English (Almurashi, 2016). According Lee and Liang (2012), the use of online videos to learn speaking skills has introduced visual perception to students in developing speaking competence. On the other hand Xiaoyu HE (2018), state that using the Cake application allows students to control their learning, can solve speaking problems, and makes students interested in speaking English. So this application is highly recommended for students who want to improve or do more practice in speaking English.

Cake application made in Korea (2018). It can be downloaded from the play store for Android users and iOS Store for iPhone users. Researchers hope that this application can be a learning medium that will help students to be interested in speaking activities and make students practice speaking more anytime and anywhere.

Most of the research using media for improving speaking skill, such as; First, research from Intan Lailatur Rahmani et al (2021) who did ini tanpa mencantumkan dan menyebutkan sumber:

The instruments of this research are pre-test and post-test. Third, research from Nurya Adilla (2022) who did quantitative research, quasi-experimental research method to investigate Cake application at the eighth grade students of MTs Babul Ulum-Pajak Rambe. The instruments of this research are pre-test and post-test. Therefore, this research aimed to further investigated the effect of using Cake application for improving students' speaking skill at the eleventh grade of Senior High School 14 Pekanbaru. ### LITERATURE REVIEW

A. Theoretical Framework

1. Nature of Speaking

Speaking is an important part of English skills that must be mastered by students. Speaking is a skill that students need to practice more because the practice can make them fluent in English. According to Brown (2000), speaking is a productive skill that can be observed directly, these observations are always associated with the accuracy and effectiveness of their listening skills, which certainly sacrifices the reliability and validity of oral production tests. According to Chaney (1998) as cited in Namaziandost and Nasri (2019), speaking is the process of building and sharing meaning in various contexts through the use of verbal and non-verbal symbols.

Furthermore, according to Harmer (2007), speaking is the ability to speak fluently and presupposes not only knowledge of language features, but also the ability to process information and language on the spot. According to Nunan (2003), speaking is the productive skill which consists of producing systematic verbal utterances to express meaning.

From the definition of speaking above, the researcher can conclude that speaking is one of the skills that must be mastered by humans because speaking is very important. With communication, we can exchange ideas and information so speaking has a big influence on life.

The Function of Speaking

Brown and Yule (2008) state the functions of speaking are classified into three kinds; talk as interaction, talk as transaction, and talk as performance.

1) Talk as Interaction

Talk as interaction refers to the conversation and describes interactions that serve primarily social functions. When people meet, they exchange greetings, engage in small talk, and so on because they want to be friendly and establish a comfortable interaction zone with other people. The focus is more on the speaker and how they want to present themselves to one another than on the message.

2) Talk as Transactions

Talk as Transactions refers to situations in which the focus is on what was said or done. There are two different types of talk as transactions. The first involves situations where the focus is on giving and receiving information and where the participants focus mainly on what was said or achieved. The second type is transactions that focus on acquiring goods or services, such as ordering food at a restaurant.

3) Talk as Show

This talk refers to Public Talk, which is talk that transmits information in front of an audience, such as class presentations, public announcements, and speeches. Talk as performance tends to be monologue rather than dialogue, often follows a recognizable format, and is closer to written language than spoken language.

The Component of Speaking

According to Hughes (2003), there are five components of speaking, they are: pronunciation, grammar, vocabulary, fluency, and comprehension.

1) Pronunciation

According to Kline (2001), pronunciation is a way to produce words clearly when spoken. This means that if someone speaks with the wrong grammar and vocabulary because it is said to be the right pronunciation, the meaning of the message to be conveyed is easier for the listener to understand.

2) Grammar

According to Richards (2006), grammar is not taught in isolation but often arises out of a communicative task, thus creating a need for specific items of grammar. It means that grammar has a rule in speaking. Without grammar, our sentences are incomplete, sometimes listeners will find it difficult to understand the purpose of our speech.

3) Vocabulary

According to Turk (2003), in spoken language the vocabulary tends to be familiar and everyday. Vocabulary is very important for the successful use of a second language because without a broad vocabulary, we will not be able to use the structures and functions that we may have learned for comprehensible communicative. It can be said that one key the success in communicative, which is the power of words.

4) Fluency

According to Pollard (2008), fluency is defined as the ability to speak communicatively, fluently and accurately. Fluency usually refers to express oral language freely without interruption. If the teacher wants to check students' fluency in teaching and learning process, the teacher allows students to express themselves freely without interruption.

5) Comprehension

According to Cohen et al (2005), comprehension is the ability to understand and process the expanse of discourse, formulate a representation of the meaning of a sentence. Second language comprehension is more difficult to learn. Understanding refers to the fact that participants fully understand the nature of a research project, even when complicated procedures entail risks.

The Teaching of Speaking

According to Nunan (2003), there are five principles for teaching English.

They are: 1) Given the second of the second

- 1) Give the students practice with both fluency and accuracy.
- 2) Be aware of the difference between second language and foreign languange learning context.

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

A. Research Design

This study used a quantitative research with an experimental design. According to Creswell (2012), the experiment is testing an idea (or practice or procedure) to determine whether or not it influences an outcome or dependent variable. The design of this research was pre-experimental research design with one group pre-test and post-test. According to Cohen (2005), the pre-experimental research is the one group pre-test post-test. According to Ary et al., (2006) there are three steps that usually involves in one-group pre-test post-test design, (1) administering a pretest measuring the dependent variable; (2) applying the experimental treatment X to the subjects; (3) administering a post test, again measuring the dependent variable. Differences attributed to application of the experimental treatment are then evaluated by comparing the pre-test and post-test score. Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that this research was conducted in one group and there was pre-test, treatment and post-test.

2. Sample of the Research

In choosing the sample, the researcher used a convenience sampling technique. According to Gay and Petter Airasian (2000), convenience sampling (also known as availability sampling) is a specific type of non-probability sampling method that relies on data collection from population members who are conveniently available to participate in the study. Therefore, the researcher chose the XI Science 7 because their interest in English lesson was higher than the other class. The total of sample in this research consisted of 36 students' from XI Science 7.

E. Technique of Data Collection

In this research, the writer used test to collect the data (pre-test and post-test). According to Brown (2007) the test means a method of measuring of person's ability, knowledge of performance in given domain. The type of the test is oral test to measure students' speaking skill. In this research, the witer used some technique in collecting the data as follows:

1. Test

The writer was used a test in this research to measure the students' speaking skill. The test was divided into two tests, pre-test and post-test in order to get the data required in this research, the writer employed the procedures that can be seen in the following:

After the treatment was carried out using the Cake application, the researcher again asked them to have a dialogue in front of the class for post-test assessment and was recorded by the researcher. The researcher gave the recording to two raters to assess students' speaking skill. The researcher used several components based on the assessment system namely: vocabulary, grammar, fluency, pronunciation, and comprehension. Researchers use this component in assessing students' speaking skill.

Solution The Validity and Reliability of Instrument Test

1. Validity

Before carrying out a test, it is necessary to know the validity of instrument. Validity is the extent to which inferences made from assessment results are appropriate, meaningful, and useful in terms of the purpose of the assessment (Brown, 2003). To measure whether the test is valid in this research, the researcher used content validity. According to Brown (2003), content validity is partly a matter of determining if the content that instrument contains is an adequate sample of the domain of content it is supposed to represent.

According to Cohen et al (2005), to demonstrate this form of validity the instrument must show that it fairly and comprehensively covers the domain or items that it purports to cover. The purpose of this test is to find out students' speaking skills, so students must speak English within 1-2 minutes based on the topics discussed. The material or topic of the test must be in accordance with the syllabus and textbooks used by students. Textbooks and school syllabus serve as guidelines in determining material for the pretest, treatment and posttest.

2. Reliability

According to Gay (2000), reliability is the degree in which the test consistently measures whatever it is measuring. According to Ary (2006), reliability is important in measuring instruments that require ratings or observations of individuals by other individuals. A test must be reliable as measuring instrument. The instrument is said to be reliable if it gives consistent results for the same measurement and unreliable if repeated measurements give different results. In this research, the researcher used inter-rater reliability to find out reliability of the test. In this research, there were two raters who take the score of students' speaking skill. The inter-rater reliability is a measure of reliability used to assess the degree to which different raters agree in their assessment decision.

G. Technique of Analyzing Data

In this study, researchers used Wilcoxon Signed Ranks Test in analyzing the data. The Wilcoxon Signed Ranks Test is a non-parametric statistical hypothesis test that is used when comparing two related samples to see the differences between paired samples. Pre-test and post-test experimental designs are examples of the types of situations in which the technique is appropriate. There are two steps involved in interpreting the results:
